WAVE SERIES

波浪

Wave series from concept to R&D to production, which we spent 3 years. This is an inter-generational product, its concept is not limited to the rattan, but based on the production technology of rattan, and it can be used for decorative materials in various fields. Wall decoration, lighting, empty partitions, crafts, even food containers, etc. As long as you use your imagination, there are more possibilities for innovation.

This series uses the fourth generation of production technology, which combines a variety of raw materials and is a composite product. The composite nature of the material determines the characteristics of the product: Good feeling and look like a real leather, soft and tough, strong tensile strength, the most importantly it is extremely light. The braided surface is rich in texture and gives a strong visual impact.
